Top judge sustained by her Wild Coast roots

President of Supreme Court of Appeal will hear Zuma's appeal against DA application over Gordhan

Helen Zille

T he more challenging challenge is to fight the real challenge that remains in convincing women to abandon their traditional roles, which includes washing the clothes and cooking the meal.

The real challenge, though, is not in convincing women to wash the clothes or cook the meal, but in convincing them to think about the future of their children and that they should not limit their aspirations because they are girls. This is where the real challenge lies. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convincing women to do what has been traditionally done by men, but about convincing them to think about the future of their children. It is not just about convince...